Playing with Your Toddler

Why is it important for my child to be active and play?

- Young children need to be active to grow and develop.
- Children need to do things over and over in order to learn them and do them well.
- Children need to explore, try new things and discover for themselves.

What kinds of play do children like?

- Copying parents doing things
- Playing with toys they can push and pull
- Repeating movements or activities
- Dumping things out of containers

Give your child the gift of health. Take time to play with your toddler.
Some activities to do with your toddler:

Super Kids
Help your child to jump and land safely by grasping his or her hand while jumping from low steps, curbs or boxes. Practice landing on both feet and bending the knees.

Let’s See, I’ll Be...
Ask your child to act like:
- A tree swaying in the wind
- The sun rising
- A cat arching its back
- A kangaroo jumping
- A train chugging along a track
- A butterfly in the sky

Balancing Act
1. Lift one foot while holding on to a chair
2. Next lift the other foot
3. Now try it with no hands
4. Don’t forget to switch legs
Some activities to do with your toddler:

Body Part Follow the Leader
Move your body parts as you repeat the words and encourage your child to:
Bend one knee and an elbow
Nod your head, look high and low
Shake a leg
Clap your hands
Wave your arms
Make circles with your hips
Wiggle your fingers
Smile
Put your feet together
Pick up your legs
Stomp your feet!
Put on music and do this together!

Chase Me, Chase Me
Playfully chase your child safely in the house or playground and hug your child when you catch her.

Playing with your toddler helps your child grow smarter, stronger, healthier and happier.
Play helps your toddler:

- learn about his body and the world around him.
- be creative and imaginative.
- sleep better at night.
- have strong bones, lungs, muscles and heart.
- be healthy.

Play is a child’s “work.” This is how they learn!
